We're there to help – in confidence.

Pregnant and your world's upside down?

Almost nothing is as life-changing as a pregnancy. Often, happiness and excitement are mixed with worry and doubt. Mothers-to-be in difficult life situations, in particular, sometimes feel that they are not up to the task ahead.

No matter what questions, doubts or fears are worrying you, we're there to help. Any time, in confidence and anonymously if you want. In our Pregnancy Advice Centres, you can discuss anything that bothers you in safety and security. All our counsellors are experienced and sympathetic and will be pleased to help.

They will work with you to find the solutions that best suit your needs and wishes.

You have every right to ask for advice and help on all matters to do with pregnancy and birth – alone or as a couple, and without giving your name.

We're there to help.

Confidential and, if you want, anonymous

We'll help you no matter what questions or fears you might have. You don't have to give your name. And if you contact us online or by telephone, you can be sure: Your data will always be protected.

Protected and safe

All our counsellors have a duty of confidentiality by law. This means that everything that you disclose to them is highly protected. No-one will find out about your conversation – including your relatives, your employer, local authorities or health insurance funds.

Open-minded and sympathetic

Experienced counsellors provide you with tangible assistance and offers of support. They work with you to find the best solution for you. They won't try to influence you and they'll respect your decision.

Open to everyone

You're welcome just as you are. Our counsellors will support you regardless of gender, origin, faith, sexual orientation or sexual identity. As a couple or alone.

Competent and personal

All our specialist counsellors are highly trained and very experienced. They work according to professional quality standards and know what help is available in your area. Advice is always provided personally – whether you visit us or call us by phone.

The right to help
